

Kai-Ping Huang

Department of Political Science, National Taiwan University
(106) No.1 Sec. 4, Roosevelt Rd., Taipei, Taiwan
Email: kaipingh232@gmail.com
(Updated on August 7, 2016)

Publications

Refereed Journals

2016. Clashing Attitudes Toward Democracy (with Bridget Welsh and Yun-han Chu)
Journal of Democracy 27(2): 132-40.

2013. Partisanship and Institutional Trust: A Comparative Analysis of Emerging Democracies in East Asia (with Feng-yu Lee and Tse-min Lin) Taiwan Journal of Democracy 9(1): 47-71.

Book Chapter

2016. Public Perceptions of a Divided Myanmar. Findings from the 2015 Myanmar Asian barometer Survey. in Conflict in Myanmar. War, Politics, Religion, eds. Nick Cheesman and Nicholas Farrelly. Singapore: ISEAS-Yusof Ishak Institute (with Bridget Welsh).

(Forthcoming). Electoral Reforms and the Thai Party System. In Partisan Development in Thai Elections: The Election of 2011, eds. Robert Albritton, Thawilwadee Bureekul, and Eugenie Merieau. Bangkok: White Lotus Press.

Technical Report

2016. Myanmar's Political Aspirations & Perceptions 2015 Asian Barometer Survey Report. Selangor, Malaysia: Strategic Information and Research Development Center (with Bridget Welsh). <http://www.asianbarometer.org/pdf/MyanmarReport2016.pdf>

2014. Youth and Democratic Citizenship in East and South-East Asia. Bangkok: Asia-Pacific Regional Center, United Nations Development Programme. (with Bridget Welsh, Yun-Han Chu, Jungmin Kim, Marcus Brand, and Sujala Pant).

Working Papers under Review

Electoral Systems and Elite Coordination: The Thai Rak Thai Party's 2001 Victory Revisited. (under review in 選舉研究)

Work in Progress

The Perception of Income Distribution and Ideological Orientation among Asia's Youth

Political Culture and the Development of Partisanship: A Comparative Analysis in Southeast Asia (with Bridget Welsh)

Social Trust and Perceived Governance: A Comparative Analysis in East and Southeast Asia.

Mapping Electoral Cleavages in Thailand (2001-2011).

Beyond Electoral Systems: How Party System Polarization Affects Strategic Voting.

Party System Fragmentation and Strategic Behavior in Different Contexts.

The Social Origins of Ideological Polarization in East and Southeast Asia.

Social and Partisan Cleavages and the Demand and Supply of Democracy (with Yunhan Chu)